

Physics Resource Center

The Physics Resource Center, located in the Burson building, Room 135A is a student-centered supplemental instruction facility. In the PRC, both online and traditional physics students may study and do their homework in groups in a comfortable academic atmosphere. A limited number of PC and Mac workstations are available for email and online assignments. The Physics Resource Center is open 9am - 5pm Monday - Thursday, and 9am - 8pm on Tuesday. Graduate students are generally available to provide supplemental instruction during office hours.
